Atlantic Coast Line To Build Million Dollar Glades Extension

High officials of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad were in the Glades recently making arrangements to build a million-dollar extension of their railroad from the present spur at Okeelanta Sugar Refinery to serve two more big operators east of US27. The estimated cost of the project is $1,020,000. Total length of the new road will be 12.9 miles.

The new spur will run from the Okeelanta plant eastward approximately six miles, and then branch northwardly about 2.5 miles, and a second branch southwardly 4.4 miles, all south of Lake Okeelantobee and near Okeelanta.

The entire line will be wholly within Palm Beach County and will not pass through or serve any incorporated city or village.

A. Duda and Sons is preparing to build a million-dollar packing house and pre-cooling plant at the northern terminus of the proposed line. A sugar mill has already been constructed at the southern terminus of the proposed construction by the South Florida Sugar Corporation. Neither site is at present served by railway and presently neither site is reached by improved state or federal highway.

In High School he was an officer in the National Forensic League, a member of the school debate team, member of the Student Council, and Chaplain of Key Club. He is also an Eagle Scout, winner of Exchange Club's speakers' contest, winner of Knights of Pythias speakers contest, and a Sunday School teacher in his church.

Michael Sanders Honored At Camp

Michael Sanders received the coveted title of "Little Chief" at Camp Rockmont for Boys, Black Mountain, N. C., during the last session which he attended July 15-August 17. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Sanders of Pahokee motored up for him and attended the final exercises at the Camp. Before returning home they toured other scenic and historical points in North Carolina.

Chief Seeks Help From Motorists

Pahokee Police Chief Leon Guthrie today asks parents and patrons of the schools who drive cars for their full cooperation when school starts next week to see that no child is hurt. "We have always had the complete cooperation of the drivers," Chief Guthrie said, "and we are counting on the full cooperation again next Tuesday and hereafter."

The Chief pointed out that Pahokee has been particularly fortunate in that no serious accidents have happened in the school zones. He and his group of patrolmen are anxious that this splendid record be maintained.

If your child rides a bike, teach him to obey all traffic rules and use special caution when near school or in busy traffic. Pay extra attention to these common Cyclist violations: failure to yield right of way, cutting in and out of moving traffic, disregarding crossing signals, improper turning and riding against traffic.

Bike stunts, carrying passengers and riding two abreast are taboo for safety's sake.

If your child walks to school sit down and map out the safest route. . . . Walk with him for several days to make certain he knows the route and heeds safety rules. . . . See that he understands the importance of following instructions of police or patrol boys. Learn how long it takes to walk the child's route so you may be alert to his expected arrival time.

If a child must cross streets alone, teach him to obey all traffic signs and signals. . . . Cross only in marked crosswalks or intersections. . . . Never Jaywalk or in the middle of the block, against a signal light or from behind parked cars. . . . Wait on curb for cars to pass, then look both ways before crossing streets.

Mr. and Mrs. James Gifford left Wednesday to make their home in Gainesville where he will enroll at the University of Florida for the next trimester.

Here Is What Transpired At Monday's Meeting Of The Palm Beach County Commission

A search of records asked by the county commission has disclosed that no arrests have been made for throwing trash and rubbish along roadsides and unauthorized dumping areas.

A report from the county's mosquito control section said the problem of litterbugs has been successfully controlled without arrests, apparently by warning violators who are caught litter-bugging private property or in unauthorized dumping areas.

The commission last week sounded a warning, that if violators were caught, they would be subject to arrest and fines.

If the county commission had any hope of getting 75 buildings at International Airport demolished without cost it appeared Monday that such hope was something like a $38,000 dream.

That amount was one of the bids the board received for the proposed demolition of 75 airport buildings declared surplus.

Lowest bid for the work was submitted by Big Chief, Inc., a price of some $9,600.

In all instances, bidders asked to be paid for the demolition work and none offered to do the job for salvage material that might be obtained.

The board decided to turn the bids over to a group for study and recommendation.

In other actions, the commission:

Received a lone bid of $1,341 for uniforms for stockade guards; had an offer of $400 for purchase of one of eight pieces of surplus photostat equipment; received three bids for a six-passenger station wagon, with Benz Chevrolet, Lake Worth, the apparent low at $2,310.

European Common Market is likely to be settled in a manner to give American poultry a fair shake in West German and neighboring markets.

France is reported to be expanding its poultry output and hopes to cash in on a rising demand among its Common Market partners.

While there's increasing talk of tariff reductions by the U. S. with respect to some European industrial products, I'm inclined to believe more sober consideration of what such a course would mean will result in resolving the present difficulties in a manner that will avoid start of a trade war.

I note that quiet progress is being made in efforts to develop practical methods of atomic food preservation.

This could be important to our citrus industry because radioactive isotopes may be used to keep oranges, for instance, fresh for a longer period. It is the rays emitted, by whatever radioactive material may be used; that do the job of inhibiting those factors which cause deterioration of perishable products. Thus, there is no danger of contamination of foods because there is no direct contact of food and radioactive material.

In other words, food products treated by such a method should be perfectly safe for consumption. Naturally, the Federal Food and Drug Administration probably will have to approve any method of atomic preservation.

Expect 15 Will Be Killed On Weekend

The Florida Highway Patrol predicted today that 15 persons may be killed in traffic crashes during the 78 hour long Labor Day week-end and appealed to every person to drive and walk with caution and care.

"The Labor Day week-end signifies the last fling at summer holidays for most people and the opening of schools in most sections of the state the day after Labor Day," said Patrol Cmdr. H. N. Kirkman. "We will have to drive for all we are worth to come through this long week-end without a traffic accident of one sort or another."

The Patrol said that while there will be a lot of people on the highways going one place or another for the week-end, there will also be those who will be stretching their vacations to the last minute and then they will start the homeward trip "all keyed up and in a big hurry."

This year's Labor Day prediction is one less than last year's 17 highway deaths, but two more than the actual count for 1960 and 1961 when 14 persons were killed each of those week-ends by traffic.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Smith and her mother, Mrs. W. S. Cross, have returned from a trip to Melbourne, Fla. and Tifton and Douglas, Ga. Enroute home, they stayed over night at White Springs.

FLORIDA POWER & LIGHT COMPANY
HELPING BUILD FLORIDA

Screwworms are giving Southwest eradication officials a rough time. The pesky insects in that part of the U. S. are displaying a vitality far in excess of that shown by the breed in Florida and the Southeast.

For instance, in surveys preliminary to our Florida eradication program in 1958-59, it was found that the screwworm fly could travel about 5 miles a day, or 35 miles a week, under its own power. That range indicated its ability to spread quite rapidly if control measures weren't in effect to confine it within a restricted area.

However, surveys in Texas have shown the flies can move as much as 185 miles a week up some of the valleys and river beds. This has posed a problem of how far to extend the "barrier" on either side of the Mexican border once eradication has been accomplished on the American side.

It is expected the barrier will be a zone where sterile flies must be dispersed permanently to prevent the migration of native flies from Mexico into U. S. territory.

In the meantime, capacity of the rearing and sterilizing plant at Mission, Texas, has been pushed up to about 130 million flies a week. That's nearly double the peak output of the big plant at Sebring during the Florida program.

It seems that insect pests, like the poor, are always with us. No sooner is one brought under control than another pops up.

Latest reports indicate the alfalfa weevil, which has a foothold west of Texas and north of Oklahoma, has been found in Mississippi, Arkansas and New Hampshire.

So far it hasn't spread into the North Central states where most of the U. S. alfalfa is produced. If it does, there'll be trouble. When it got into Georgia it cut the alfalfa crop there by half.

Researchers are constantly pressing for new methods of insect control and eradication. Their discoveries are especially important in view of the current furor over "environmental hazards" due to contamination from the use of various poisonous chemicals.

"Sonic control" is the newest idea to engage the attention of research entomologists. They think it may be possible to "jam" the sound waves emitted by some female insects to attract the males.

If the mating call isn't heard, the male won't be able to find mates. It's another angle for preventing reproduction of a species and thus eventually wipe out the population, or at least reduce it to manageable proportions.

I note that current reports indicate the broiler industry is headed for some mighty rough going in 1964. Severe financial losses are being predicted for some producers if the heavy buildup in placements continues.

In the meantime, there seems to be no indication the big "chicken hassle" between the U. S. and the United States.

Twenty years ago, in the dark, uneasy days before Pearl Harbor, the Minute Man of Concord, timeless symbol of our Nation's determination to defend its freedom, emerged as the emblem of the U. S. Savings Bonds Program. When war came, the Minute Man became the rallying force behind the huge and overwhelmingly successful effort to back our fighting men with War Bonds.

In this, the 20th anniversary year of Savings Bonds, the Minute Man of Concord calls all Americans to an unrelenting effort to help preserve our peace and freedom, threatened by forces more powerful and resourceful than those we faced in 1941. Though this effort will take many forms, one way open to all is the continued investment in Shares in America, U. S. Savings Bonds, by "citizens who regard the preservation of freedom as a basic purpose of their daily life."

Florida Jaycees Favor Rec Law

The Florida Junior Chamber of Commerce has gone on record as favoring the passage of the Outdoor Recreation Amendment at the November 5 special election and has urged every local Jaycee organization in the State to "exert intensive effort" to insure the citizens of the State are informed of the facts concerning the referendum.

The action was taken at the Summer Jaycee Conference held in Naples this week.

Urging the adoption of the Resolution was R. R. (Jack) Horner of Palm Beach, Vice Chairman of the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District.

Horner told the delegates assembled that "If Florida is to continue to attract tourists and at the same time provide adequate outdoor recreation for its citizens, voters on Nov. 5 must approve the Outdoor Recreation Bond Referendum to make funds available to purchase the sites needed."

Kitchen Shower For Shirley Levins

Miss Shirley Ann Levins, bride-elect of Ralph McCotter, Jr. of Arapahoe, N. C., was honored with a kitchen shower, Saturday evening, at the home of Mrs. Paul Collier, Jr., 141 S. Elm St., Pahokee. Hostesses with Mrs. Collier were Mrs. James Batchelor, Mrs. Wheeler Ludlam and Mrs. Gene McDowell.

In keeping with the motif of pink and white, the refreshment table was laid with a white cloth of linen, richly embroidered in cutwork design, and centered with an arrangement of sweetheart roses, pink delphinium, gerberas and baby's breath. Ice in the form of a wedding ring which was embedded with tiny rosebuds and peach blossoms, floated in the pink punch, served in a crystal bowl. Tall white tapers in crystal holders lighted the scene.

Mrs. Dorothy Fletcher was presented with a gift as winner of the scrambled word contest, and Miss Del McDowell was in charge of the guest book.

Among the lovely gifts received by the bride-elect, was a set of dinnerware in her chosen pattern, presented to her by the hostesses. Background music including traditional wedding selections was played on stereo throughout the evening.

Bitter And Sweet Taken By Co. Board

Critics who last week blasted conditions at the county negro children's home were back before the county commission this week to paint a glowing picture of operations at the white children's home.

One of the principal critics was Mrs. Myrtle Lockwood, Lake Worth, and this week she had nothing but praise for the white children's home. She said the operation is so successful that children sent there "find a new way of life."

By comparison, she said, the white children's home provides "an environment producing good citizens" and the negro home an "environment producing law breakers of tomorrow."

She was joined in her praise of the white children's home by Mrs. Harriet Glasner, who said it was such a fine place that it should be included on any conducted tour of county installations.

The commission, lead by Lake

Lytal, was quick to point out that full credit for the reported outstanding operation of the white children's home should go to the juvenile court and the board of visitors.

By the same token, they said, any corrective action or changes should be initiated by the same two groups.

The county's responsibility, the commission explained, is in providing facilities. Operation of the two homes is the responsibility of the juvenile court and the board of visitors. The commission said it stands ready to follow the recommendations made by the board of visitors.

Commissioner Lytal told the two commission visitors that many of the extra facilities provided at the white children's home are made available by organizations interested in the operation of the home.

He suggested that similar facilities could be made available at the negro children's home if organizations could be interested in seeing conditions improved.
